PLANS FOR THE CENTENNIAL

Attractions the Equal of Which Have Never Been Brought Here Have Been Booked.

The entertainment committee of the Seymour Centennial organization has already booked a number of spectacular and unusually high class attractions to be brought here during the week of September 11-16 and will enter into contracts with a number of others within the next few days. It is announced that the attractions already engaged are far superior to any that have ever been seen here at any celebration in the past and the descriptions bear out this assertion. The committee decided that none but the very best would be booked for this city and has searched the country over for the kind of entertainments that were desired.

A contract has been made with the Seymour Concert Band for the music for the entire week. The local organization consisting of about forty members will engage from nine to a dozen out-of-town musicians to assist during the Centennial. On Monday night the entire band will probably play as one organization but after that time it will be divided so that two concerts can be given in different parts of the amusement zone at the same time. However, the details have not yet been decided definitely.

Among the high class attractions that will be seen here are the Five Martell's, novelty cyclists. This company goes under the name of "The Cycling Whirlwinds," and the information coming to the local committee indicates that the title is appropriate. This act has never been presented in a city of less than 30,000 inhabitants and could only be brought here by meeting the stipulations of the contract which call for a large sum of money.

"The Flying Marrs" have also been secured for the week. This is an intensely thrilling aerial trapeze and aerial ring act at a dizzy height.

Madam Pontifex in the most sensational diving performance in this country, is also scheduled to appear here. She performs her act together with the famous Arabian horse, Max, a pony and two dogs. The dive is made into a twelve foot tank of water. This attraction has created a sensation wherever it has been given and the local committee was assured by several different sources that it would be a great feature for the local celebration.

The Great Fussner, the only man in the world executing the aerial saw, is another attraction that has been booked. On a large ball he balances on a pivoted board sixty feet above the level of the street and

LUNG MOTOR WILL BE KEPT AT THE FIRE DEPARTMENT

New Life Saving Device Will be Subject to Call the Same as Other Apparatus of Department.

Victor Kemp, representing the Life Saving Device Company, from which the city recently purchased a lung motor, was in Seymour Wednesday night and gave the city firemen instruction in the use of the machine. He said that the device purchased by the city would arrive today. It will be kept at the fire department and will be subject to call the same as the other equipment of the department. The firemen and physicians of the city will be fully instructed as to its use.

The device is said to be valuable in resuscitating persons who have become unconscious while swimming or who have been stunned by electrical currents. It is also of great value, it is stated, to hospital work and the physicians strongly urged its purchase.

CELEBRATIONS TO BE HELD IN COUNTY

Crisis in National Affairs Will be Reflected in Independence Day Programs in This Vicinity.

CELEBRATION AT LOCAL PARK

Fireworks Display Will Feature Observance to be Given Here Under Auspices of the Band.

Because of the existing crisis in national affairs it is expected that the various Independence Day celebrations to be held in various parts of Jackson county next Tuesday will develop into patriotic demonstrations. The committees in charge of the several celebrations have encouraged this idea and have arranged the programs accordingly. Patriotic addresses will be delivered at several places. Fireworks displays in keeping with the "safety first" movement have been arranged as features for several of the celebrations. Others will be of the nature of a picnic in which the community is invited to participate.

The principal celebration will be held in this city. An elaborate program has been arranged by the Seymour Concert band under whose auspices the observance will be held. Shields Park has been engaged for the day. It is announced by the committee that the band will give an almost continuous concert during the day and evening. The band will play each hour and it is expected that the grounds will be crowded both during the day and night.

Jesse Neal, who is chairman of the celebration committee, announces that a fire works display of unusual character will be given in the evening. This feature of the program will be entirely in the hands of members of the band and their assistants so as to avoid all danger to spectators. About $50 has been spent for the fire works which are already in the city. The celebration has been widely advertised in this vicinity and it is expected to bring many out-of-town people here during the day. The committee on the suggestion of a number of citizens have arranged an "old fashioned" Fourth of July program and plenty of amusement is promised for the spectators.

Vallonia is also planning for a Big Fourth of July celebration. It will be held at Peter's Grove and will be in the nature of a Sunday School picnic. A number of Sunday schools from that section of the county are planning to attend, among them being the school at Russell's Chapel. A varied program has been arranged and while special attention will be given to amusements of various kinds the patriotic idea will be emphasized, it is announced.

The Four Corners picnic, two miles south of Hayden, is expected to draw a big crowd. An afternoon ball game has been arranged.

A number of other picnics and celebrations in the different parts of the county have been announced so that Jackson County people will have no difficulty in finding a place to spend the day and participate in the patriotic demonstrations. All of the celebrations will be conducted in keeping with the "safe and sane" movement and it is announced by several of the committees that fire crackers and other explosives will not be allowed on the grounds. The fire works where such displays are to be arranged will be charge of the committees so as to avoid all danger to children and spectators attending. The city ordinance prohibits the use of large fire crackers, toy cap pistols, revolvers and other forms of explosives within the city limits. The regulation was made several years ago and has been rigidly enforced.

CARRANZA SAYS REPLY CONTAINS MISSTATEMENTS

First Chief Tells Students in Mexico City That Wilson's Charges Are Groundless.

By United Press.
Mexico City, June 29.—General Carranza's reply to the American note threatening "gravest consequences" if the American forces are attached and reciting alleged Mexican outrages will allege that several of the president's statements are based on unauthenticated rumors, it was learned today. The reply itself has not been completed but General Carranza himself indicated something of its character in an address to a group of students last night.

"The American note purporting to be an answer to the Mexican note in reality is not an answer at all, but a series of charges," he said. "A reply is being prepared rectifying these statements. The American note and the reply will be given to the public here as soon as possible."

TWO OFFICERS IN COMPANY K GET SHORT FURLOUGH

Serg. Rae Gilbert and Corp. Frank Gilbert to Return on Account of Condition of Mother.

Frank S. Gilbert received a telegram this morning from his son, Serg. Rae Gilbert that he and his brother, Corp. Frank Gilbert, both officers in Company K, have been granted a ten days' furlough. The army officers permitted the two young men to return here for a few days on account of the serious condition of their mother. A furlough of thirty days was asked for them but it is expected that the Indiana troops will move to the border within the next two weeks and for that reason the time asked was refused.

CASEMENT FOUND GUILTY OF HIGH TREASON BY JURY

Former British Diplomat Faces Death Penalty for Alleged Part in Irish Rebellion.

By United Press.
London, June 29.—Sir Roger Case-ment was this afternoon found guilty of high treason in connection with the Irish rebellion and his attempt to induce British prisoners in Germany to desert the British colors. The jury deliberated less than an hour. The crime is punishable by death.

TROOP MOVEMENTS

Will Not be Affected by Release of American Prisoners.

By United Press.
San Antonio, Tex., June 29.—General Trevino's release of the American cavalrymen captured in the Carrizal fight is expected to have no effect on troop movements and that the concentration of the state militiamen along the border will continue as originally planned.

MEXICAN TROOPS NEAR THE BORDER

Reports to Columbus Base Camp Say Carranzista Forces are Concentrating at Guzman.

AIRCRAFT TO INVESTIGATE

New Mexico Troops Ordered Across the Border to Bring Back Detachment of Cavalrymen.

By United Press.
Columbus, N. M., June 29.—Reports that large Carranzista forces were concentrating at Guzman in a position to cut the American communication line resulted in several truckloads of New Mexico militiamen being sent into Mexico to bring back cavalry horses.

The use of the New Mexico national militiamen to escort the cavalry horses back out of possible danger was the first time militiamen crossed the border into Mexico.

The report and quick movement of troops from the Columbus base camp caused the greatest excitement early today. Rumors that the field telegraph line south had been cut proved unfounded.

An aeroplane at General Pershing's headquarters is expected to make a reconnoitering flight around Guzman to investigate the report of trouble.

The cavalry remount left yesterday and went into camp for the night, seven miles south of the border, where they were overtaken and turned back.

AMERICANS SMUGGLED OUT OF MEXICAN COAST CITY

U. S. Collier and Tank Steamer Bring 1,050 Refugees from Tampico to Galveston, Tex.

By United Press.
Galveston, Tex., June 29.—1,050 American refugees arrived here today on the United States collier Dixie and the tank steamer, W. H. Wylie. They reported they were smuggled out of Tampico, Mex., by the American consul and the commanders of the vessels there.

ENTHUSIASM DAMPENED

Eastern Guardsmen Doubt if They Will See Actual Service.

By United Press.
Chicago, June 29.—Eastern militia regiments enroute to the border seemed considerably dampened in enthusiasm today as the trains passed through Chicago. News that Carranza had released the American prisoners in Chihuahua City left the impression among the guardsmen that they would not see actual service across the border.

U. S. MAY LATER CONSIDER PAN AMERICAN MEDIATION

By United Press.
Washington, June 29.—Any offer of Pan-American mediation just now would be useless, in view of the absence of knowledge of Carranza's attitude towards the United States, Bolivian Minister Calderon was informed by Secretary Lansing today.

Lansing, however, did not throw cold water on a possible future mediation offer and Calderon indicated he would probably make an effort formally after official word comes from Carranza.

FIRST ILLINOIS IS ONLY MILITIA UNIT ENROUTE

Two Other Regiments from that State to Entrain Today—Kansas About Ready to Go.

By United Press.
Chicago, June 29.—The First Illinois infantry, which entrained from Springfield last night, was the only militia unit in the central department of the army enroute to the border early this afternoon, reports to the departments showed.

Two other Illinois regiments are to leave today or tonight. Wisconsin is about ready to entrain.

The second Kansas infantry reported its readiness to leave for the border tomorrow. The first Kansas will go on July 2nd and the signal corps will entrain July 3rd.

The Indiana batteries are ready to leave for the border at any time, but the other Indiana troops will be held a few days.

AID FOR GUARDSMEN TO COME UP IN A SEPARATE MEASURE

President Gives Authority to Draft State Militiamen Into Federal Service.

By United Press.
Washington, June 29.—Having eliminated all provisions for the release of national guardsmen, the senate today adopted a resolution empowering the president to draft militiamen into federal service.

Senator LaFollette attempted to delay action on the resolution until tomorrow on the grounds that senators favoring aid to guardsmen should have another chance to insert some provision in the measure.

Insisting on immediate action Chairman Stone said that the release of the United States prisoners had by no means done away with emergencies on the border. He promised an opportunity to consider aid for guardsmen in a separate measure.

ACTION AVERTS AN IMMEDIATE BREAK

Carranza's Action in Releasing American Prisoners Gives Hope That War May be Avoided.

OTHER ISSUES ARE INVOLVED

United States Wants to Know the Attitude of First Chief Towards American Troops.

BULLETIN.

By United Press.
El Paso, Tex., June 29.—The American prisoners released from Chihuahua at the order of General Carranza arrived in Juarez this afternoon.

By United Press.

Washington, June 29.—Official confirmation of General Carranza's order to release the American prisoners held at Chihuahua City reached the state and war departments today. Consul Rodgers wired that the prisoners had been released and it is understood at the state department that the full text of Carranza's reply to President Wilson's note threatening "gravest consequences" will arrive today.

Danger of immediate hostilities between the United States and Mexico has been averted. With the release by General Carranza of the American prisoners a big step has been taken in avoiding the "gravest consequences." There is yet much to be done, however.

How fully the Mexican crisis has been modified will not be known until the text of Carranza's reply to President Wilson's note is received.

The president wishes to know what the first chief's attitude is to be in the future, his explanation of the Carrizal fight and whether or not his future intentions embody co-operation with the American forces in Mexico or opposition to their work.

CHIEF MEDICAL OFFICER AT FT. BENJAMIN HARRISON

Lieutenant-Colonel Bannister of Central Army Department Pushes the Examinations.

By United Press.
Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, June 29.—With the arrival of Lieutenant-Colonel Bannister, chief medical officer in the central department of the United States army, the physical examination of the Indiana National Guard was being rushed today.

The Indiana signal corps was the first division to be examined today. Ambulance Company No. 1 next passed before the examining officer. The two companies were mustered into federal service shortly before noon.

Fourteen guardsmen who were sent to the guard house for refusing to take the federal oath changed their minds late yesterday and today joined the Plymouth and Elkhart companies of which they were members. After having the oath explained to them and having it pointed out that the pledge does not bind them to three years regular service as they understood, the members of the Indiana Second Regiment, of the Indiana University Band, were mustered in.

Troop Train Delayed.

TENSION LESSENS IN MEXICAN CRISIS

Mobilization of State Troops Will Continue.

WAR PLANS ARE COMPLETED

It is Now Believed That Carranza Will Adopt a Conciliatory Attitude and Meet All Demands of the United States.

Washington, June 29.—The tension in Washington over the Mexican situation was notably lessened by the news received through unofficial sources from the border that General Trevino had ordered the release of the American prisoners taken at Carrizal and their equipment.

The pessimism which had been apparent at the White House and in other official quarters earlier in the day gave place to a brighter outlook, and it was acknowledged that if Carranza has yielded to the demands of the United States to this extent an important step had been taken toward averting the present crisis.

The change of feeling in Washington was all the more noticeable because President Wilson, until word was flashed of General Trevino's action, had been making his plans on the assumption that further peaceful parleys with Carranza were impossible. The president had, in fact, made preliminary arrangements to lay the Mexican situation before congress today.

There is no doubt that President Wilson will welcome the opportunity for a peaceful understanding with Carranza and that he will go more than half way in trying to clear up the present situation without a recourse to arms. There is no doubt, however, that Carranza will have to give satisfaction for the attack on the American troops and that the president will not be content with anything short of a definite understanding in regard to the future. There is no intention on the part of the administration of withdrawing the United States troops from Mexico and any peaceful solution of the present situation will have to be based on this condition.

Latin-Americans here said that Carranza has yielded to the influence of Mexican interests, who have been urging him to adopt a more reasonable course, even if it seemed inconsistent with Mexican dignity.

Diplomats from the South and Central American countries were pleased over the turn of affairs here taken.

There will be no change in the president's plans for sending the militia to the border. The moving of the troops will go as rapidly as possible. The president is determined that he will have adequate force on the border to protect it against Mexican raids and to meet any other emergency that may arise.

Impressive evidence of the determined fashion in which the administration is hurrying the preparations for possible hostilities with Mexico was conveyed in the official disclosure that General Funston already has mapped out a complete plan for a Mexican campaign. A long message from General Funston transmitting his plan was received at the state department and was studied by the general staff. It is believed that General Funston's plan will be adopted without substantial modification.

The greatest secrecy surrounds the Funston plan. No hint of it will be given the public until the commander of the American forces in the field begins to put it in operation.

The army bill recently signed by the president authorized the appointment of an advisory committee of seven men to aid the government in the practical work of caring for the army. While that committee has not been appointed, officials believe the threat of trouble with Mexico will cause the president to select the membership without delay.

Should war come the president is expected to call leading business men and transportation authorities of the country to the White House for conferences on the industrial problems growing out of it. The president is said to intend to call the best minds to the assistance of the government should a crisis be faced.

CHARGES "INSULT TO FLAG" BY AUSTRIA

Note Cites Submarine Attack on Petrolite.

Washington, June 29.—The American rejoinder to Austria regarding the Austrian submarine attack on the American steamer Petrolite, made public by the state department, describes the act as a "deliberate insult to the flag of the United States and an invasion of the right of American citizens," and requests a prompt apology, punishment of the submarine commander, and payment of indemnity.

In vigorous language the communication sent a week ago today, makes it clear that the United States government believes the facts of the case entirely different from what the Austrian submarine commander reported them to be and that immediate amends are expected.

The Austrian claim that the Petrolite's captain voluntarily gave up supplies taken from the steamer by the submarine commander is flatly contradicted, as are the claims that warning shots were fired across the Petrolite's bow, before she was shelled and that her appearance was such as to justify the submarine commander in mistaking her for a cruiser.

The attack on the Petrolite, a Standard Oil tanker, occurred in the Mediterranean, Dec. 5. A protest sent soon afterward on preliminary reports from the tanker's captain and crew brought the Austrian communication to which the new American note replies.

RUSH TROOPS TO BORDER

Four More States Are to Entrain Within a Few Hours.

Chicago, June 29.—Orders were issued by the central department of the United States army for the troops of Illinois, Kansas, Wisconsin and Missouri to entrain for the border as soon as each unit is mustered in and examined. The troops were ordered to entrain for the following destinations: Illinois—First cavalry, Brownsville, Tex. All other Illinois troops to San Antonio. Kansas troops to Eagle Pass, Tex. Wisconsin troops to San Antonio. Missouri troops to Laredo, Tex. Other troops in the central department were to depart for points yet to be named as soon as "reasonably ready." Several regiments in each of these states are ready to move, being mustered in and examined.

MEAT SUPPLY FOR U. S. ARMY

Chicago Packing Houses to Supply 1,500,000 Pounds Monthly.

Chicago, June 29.—Chicago packing houses are preparing to furnish a monthly supply of 1,500,000 pounds of meat for the needs of the army. Of this, 900,000 pounds is bacon. Contracts for the meat were closed within the last few days by the office of the army quartermaster of which Colonel A. D. Kniskern has charge.

The orders were placed for the regular army, but were made unusually large to meet the needs of the militia, in the event it is rushed to the border.

Two Little Girls Suicide.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 29.—Ethel and Tenny Fudge, little girls aged thirteen and nine years, were found, following a search by the police in a deserted house on the outskirts of Jacksonville, shot through the heart. Notes were left by the children claiming they committed suicide in preference to being sent to the orphan's home.

Dr. Liebknecht Guilty.

Berlin (via Amsterdam to London), June 29.—Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the Socialist leader, was sentenced to thirty months penal servitude and dismissal from the army for attempted high treason, gross insubordination and resistance to the authorities.

MEXICANS FREE U. S. TROOPERS

Americans Along Border Enraged at Raids.

HOME GUARDS ORGANIZE

Attitude of Mexican Officials Defying Efforts of Americans to Secure Release For Outrages by Bandits Arouses Anger—Await Militia.

El Paso, Tex., June 29.—General Jacinto Trevino has ordered that the American prisoners interned in the penitentiary at Chihuahua City be taken to Juarez and there, with their arcs and accoutrements, be released. This information was received at the Juarez commandancia. The prisoners are said to be already on their way north.

General Trevino notified Brigadier-General George Bell Jr., commanding the El Paso military district, of the order and it immediately was forwarded to General Funston.

According to the report received by Consul Garcia from General Trevino, the prisoners were to be delivered to the American authorities. General Funston forwarded the report to Washington.

There were twenty-three American troopers held at Chihuahua City, excluding Sam Spillsbury, the Mormon scout.

Americans along the border continued their preparations for home guards in the event of war. Practically every town from Brownsville to San Diego reported the formation of such guards. Tucson, Ariz., reports the most unique organization, however. Thirty Chinese citizens have formed themselves into a company and have placed themselves at the disposal of the mayor of the city with the promise that they will increase their number to one hundred in a short time.

That the Mexicans are still hopeful of peace was reflected in an interview given out by Mexican Consul Garcia, although this was discounted largely by an interview by Congressman W. R. Smith, who arrived at the border from Washington and asserted that intervention is inevitable.

"All the good people of both countries ought to get together in the interest of peace, for war would mean hell on earth," said Consul Garcia at Juarez.

Americans Enraged.

While marking time and awaiting the arrival of the thousands of militiamen, now speeding to the border from north, south, east and west, rage and resentment reached the boiling point among Americans along the border, as Mexican outrages continued to pile up and Mexican officials continued defiant at all efforts of Americans to secure redress.

Complaint to Mexican Consul Andres Garcia of El Paso regarding the raids of Mexican bandits on the New Mexican soil and the murdering of William Parker and wife, near Hachita, were met only by the declaration of the consul that Mexican citizens had been "roughly abused" along the border by the Americans trailing the bandits and his assertion that there was no proof the bandits came from Mexico.

From Nogales, Ariz., came the news of the attempt of eight armed Carranza soldiers to cross the line, evidently for the purpose of harming Americans in a nearby mining camp. They were driven back by the fire of American border patrols and the incident was followed by a pre-emptory order of Major Brook, commanding the American forces, to his men to "cross over" if the Mexicans fired a shot from their side of the line.

A raid by Mexicans upon the Diamond ranch in New Mexico, nine miles from the Parker ranch, while the cowboys were away in the chase for the perpetrators of the Parker tragedy, caused further excitement and resentment among Americans and the publication along the border of insolent declarations of Mexican officials regarding Americans, and a statement from American refugees from Parral, charging harsh treatment at the hands of Carranza soldiers while attempting to reach the border served to fan the war spirit among the Americans and led to open declarations everywhere that "if the army does not go across in a few hours it will take an army to keep the civilians back."

Mexican resentment was kindled further by the report that American cowboys, following the Parker ranch raiders, had crossed the line into Mexico.

Berlin Paper Suspended.

Berlin (via London), June 29.—The Tageblatt, one of the leading newspapers, announced that its appearance had been prohibited by order of the military commander. This is the first instance for some months of the suspension of a Berlin paper.

Red Cross Ready.

New York, June 29.—The New York Red Cross now has four base hospitals ready for service whenever they may be called upon, and wherever they may be required to send their units.

American Officer Leads Assault on Dominican Rebels.

U. S. MARINE KILLED BY DOMINICAN REBELS

Admiral Caperton's Forces Assault Trenches.

Washington, June 29.—One American soldier was killed and another wounded in an engagement reported by Rear Admiral Caperton between United States marines and Santo Domingo rebels. The rebels losses were not given.

The name of the marine killed was given as private John Aciment of the Twenty-seventh company. His name does not appear in navy department records. Albert Veldum of Aberdeen, Wash., a private of the Twenty-seventh, was wounded.

Admiral Caperton's report said the rebels were found in force entrenched in a strong natural position in two lines of trenches about sixteen miles from Monte Christi. They were dislodged by assault after an artillery fire.

A report reached the navy department earlier in the day from Admiral Caperton saying that Colonel Pendleton with a considerable force of marines was marching eighty miles overland from Puerto Plata to occupy Santiago and Le Vega.

Girl-Wife Convicted of Murder.

Ft. Worth, Tex., June 29.—Mrs. Katherine Vance Harrison, fifteen, was convicted of the murder of W. L. Warren, aged hotel keeper, and sentenced to five years' imprisonment. She killed Warren, whom she claimed assaulted her before her marriage, in the presence of her young husband.

FRENCH REPULSE TEUTON ATTACKS

Temporary Gains of Germans Are Lost.

ITALIANS CONTINUE GAINS

Are Delivering Telling Blows Against the Austro-Hungarian Forces, Regaining Much of the Ground Taken From Them by Dual Monarchy.

Paris, June 29.—An offensive which so far has not reached any large proportions was instituted by the Germans during the night in the Champagne region and was continued during the day with an infantry attack which succeeded in gaining temporary possession of some French advanced posts.

The attack in this district, which is in the region of the French offensive of last fall, was begun on the St. Hilaire Le Grande-St. Souplet road, a little west of the salient, with Tahure in its apex, resulting from the French offensive. This beginning was made by a reconnoitering party of considerable size, which was dispersed by the French barrage fire before it had reached the French lines.

The German artillery in this region increased its bombardment, and, following the cannonade, infantry was sent forward, gaining for the moment, a foothold in advanced posts which it was unable to hold against the French counter attacks.

Further progress was made by the French in the operation north of Hill 321, north of the Thiaumont farm and on the borders of the Thiaumont field work. Early in the morning the Germans made two counter attacks on this bank of the Meuse; one on the French positions on Hill 321, and the other between Fleury and the Bois De Vaux chapitre. Both attacks broke down. There was heavy fighting during the night in the Thiaumont sector.

The French lines at Avocourt and Chattancourt, on the west bank of the Meuse were under heavy bombardment during the night and all day. German forces gathered for an attack on Hill 304 were prevented from leaving their trenches. Hand grenade actions took place during the night at Hill 304 and Le Mort Homme.

Italians are delivering telling blows against the Austro-Hungarian forces and are regaining much of the ground that was given up in the recent offensive of the dual monarchy's armies. The Italians have pushed along the Asiago plateau, occupied the southern side of the Area valley and captured other important positions between Posina and Astice.

General von Linsingen's Austro-German army achieved a substantial success in his counter-drive against the Russians in Volhynia by storming the village of Liniewka, seven miles to the southwest of Sokul, as well as the Russian positions south of the village. This means that the Russians in this sector have been driven back over the river Stokhod, which runs parallel with the Sty and which they crossed two weeks ago in their advance on the great railroad center Kovel.

NEW ROSTER STATE GUARDS

Contains Names of Officers in Newly Organized First Regiment.

Ft. Benjamin Harrison, June 29.—A new roster of the officers of the Indiana national guard was issued from the office of Franklin L. Bridges, the adjutant-general. It is given as special order No. 30 and is the first to contain a roster of the officers of the newly organized First regiment.

Leslie R. Naftzger is the colonel, and the order also carries the names of Captain John J. Toffey, United States army, the new lieutenant-colonel, and Major Benjamin R. Wimer of Terre Haute; Major Robert E. O'Brien Fifth United States infantry, and Major Chester Barnett of Indianapolis, commanding the three battalions of the organization.

—by keeping your teeth REALLY CLEAN.
"But," you say, "I brush my teeth regularly, yet they decay." Yes, you brush them, but do you REALLY CLEAN them? Tonight, after brushing your teeth, examine them closely. You will likely find an accumulation of tartar on the enamel and bits of food deposit hiding in the crevices.

Decay, as well as the dangerous gum disease called Pyorrhea, usually develops only in the mouth where germ-laden tartar is present. SENRECO, the formula of a dental specialist, keeps the teeth REALLY CLEAN. It embodies specially prepared soluble granules unusually effective in cleaning away food deposits. Moreover, it is particularly destructive to the germ of Pyorrhea.

GUARDSMEN WILL BE SENT TO BORDER

Compliance by Carranza With One Demand Will Not Interfere With Present Plans of the Army.

CHANCE NOW FOR MEDIATION

United States Will Insist That It Has Right to Send its Troops Southward from Border.

Washington, June 29.—An immediate break between the United States and the de facto government of Mexico has been averted by compliance with the American demand for release of the twenty-three troopers captured in the fight at Carrizal.

Gen. Jacinto Trevino issued the order to release the troopers interned at Chihuahua City and by his command, the captives already are probably on their way to Juarez, according to the word received here from Gen. Funston. The report stated that the troopers would be permitted to retain their arms and accoutrements and would be turned over to the American authorities.

Whether a state of war has been prevented or merely postponed no one here would attempt to say. Official information as to the attitude of Gen. Carranza was lacking. Until his response to Secretary Lansing's note, dispatched Sunday, making two peremptory and distinct demands, is received there will be no decision on whether President Wilson shall lay the crisis before Congress.

News of the release of the prisoners, received early tonight in press dispatches, brought undisguised relief to high officials. It was accepted as correct, although no announcement had come through official sources. Moreover it was assumed that Carranza, impressed with the urgency of the situation, had ordered the captured cavalymen started for the border without waiting for his announcement of the action to reach Washington.

While it generally is conceded that this move lessens tension and makes the crisis less imminent, no one conversant with the grave problem is losing sight of the fact that the all-important question of Carranza's attitude toward the American expedition across the border to protect the territory and citizens of the United States from bandit outrages remains unsettled. If the de facto government stands upon the orders to Gen. Trevino to attack Pershing's men when they move otherwise than toward the border, the situation actually is just what it was before, except that there now is a possibility of diplomatic negotiations that did not exist while the Americans were held prisoners at Chihuahua.

The preparations of the United States for war will go steadily forward. There will be no interruption of the rush of national guardsmen to the border, and Gen. Funston will continue disposing of the forces under his command as though he expected an immediate attack from the Mexicans.

The fact that Carranza has complied with one of the demands is accepted by the more optimistic officials here as an indication that he is striving to prevent a break. Even though he again should attempt to throw all blame for the Carrizal fight upon the American officers and insist upon his right to forcibly oppose any except northward movements of American troops, it is thought that possibly he will state his position in such a way as to make further discussion necessary.

During any negotiations, however, the United States will insist upon freedom of movement of the troops in Mexico, and any attempt to interfere with them will be met by such force as is necessary. This will apply, too, to any period of delay occasioned by attempts to arrange mediation or arbitration.

The possibility of Latin-American offers of mediation in the crisis again was widely discussed today. Ignacio Calderon, minister from Bolivia, will make a second call upon Secretary Lansing today to discuss the subject. He will endeavor to ascertain for the benefit of himself and his colleagues whether tender of good offices by the South and Central American republics would be entertained at this time. The minister said after his first conference with Secretary Lansing on Monday that he understood the United States to be unwilling even to discuss the subject of mediation or arbitration while the captured American troopers remained in custody.

It is known that powerful influences have been brought to bear on Carranza in the past few days to make him at least turn over the American prisoners.

JOHN U. PETTIT (86)

John U. Pettitt was one of the foremost judges produced in the hundred years of Indiana history. He was born in New York of good English stock, Sept. 11, 1820 and came to Indiana in 1840. He was admitted to the bar and began the practice of law at Wabash.

In 1844 Pettitt was elected to the legislature and in 1850 was appointed United States Consul. After two years in the consular service he returned to take up the practice of law. Soon after returning he was appointed district judge. He served three terms in Congress and was speaker of the Indiana House of representatives in 1865.

Because of his able work on the bench he was appointed professor of law in Indiana University.

EFFORT MADE TO ESTABLISH NAVAL BASE NEAR PORTLAND

Secretary Daniels Considering the Suggestion in Conjunction With Naval Report of 1900.

(By John Bartram Kelley, written for the United Press)

Portland, Ore., June 29.—From Montana to the Pacific Ocean there has arisen during recent months a demand, persistent and serious, that the mouth of the greatest river on the Pacific Coast of America, the entrance to the 250,000 square miles of American territory, known as the Columbia Basin and the Inland Empire, receive governmental recognition by the establishment there of a naval base of the first class, with adequate fortifications to protect this investment.

The acorn from which this mighty oak of sentiment has grown is known as the Columbia Naval Committee.

In January F. C. Harley and Wallace R. Struble started the movement in Astoria.

The necessity for the naval base was an easy matter to prove. The Pacific Coast is so helpless at this moment that our military experts say that in case of an invasion the first stand American troops could make would be in the Bear River Valley in Utah. That means the evacuation of the Pacific Northwest.

Our naval base at Bremerton is entirely unprotected from a flank or rear attack so long as there is no adequate defense at the mouth of the Columbia. Furthermore, it is located 132 miles from the ocean and its entrance is dominated by territory of the greatest sea power in the world.

Strategically, the mouth of the Columbia is the key to the Northwest. From it to Alaska is open American roadstead and the shortest route.

It is the nearest point to Kokonahama.

It is the entrance to the wheat belt, to three-fourths of our transcontinental lines, to a 500 mile navigable waterway, and to the only water grade route to the Northwest.

These are arguments which the residents of the basin considered before making their demands.

Commercial bodies of Eugene, Salem, Portland and Astoria have endorsed the movement. In March the city of Spokane, uniting with the naval base committee, held a preparedness convention in which five states were represented. This convention was held at the suggestion of P. N. Bernard of Kalispell, Mont.

Six hundred Portland business men have sent a long omnibus telegram to Washington in six sections, urging the necessity of the naval base. The present status of the campaign is considered favorable.

Secretary Daniels is considering the naval report of 1,900 in conjunction with the army report of 1916.

Chairman of naval committees in the House and Senate are both friendly to the Hawley and Lane bills for the establishment of the naval base.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. McDonald and daughter, Mary, returned to their home near Columbus today after a visit with friends in Seymour for several days.

Prize Offered by A. W. Thompson to be Shown in Various Cities Over the System.

With the schedule of baseball games between clubs composed of employees of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad well under way, the A. W. Thompson Challenge Cup, donated by A. W. Thompson, vice-president in charge of the company's operations, will be exhibited in the cities represented in the various leagues in order to stimulate interest in athletics. The cup will be exhibited in the passenger stations for inspection by the traveling public after which it will be placed in the display window of a local jewelry store.

Starting at New York, July 1, it will be shown in Baltimore and Ohio territory at Philadelphia, Baltimore, Brunswick, Cumberland, Grafton and Parkersburg. Then the cup will be sent to the Southwestern district and exhibited at Chillicothe, Cincinnati, Seymour, Flora and St. Louis. It will be taken to Dayton, on the Cincinnati Hamilton and Dayton line, after which it will be returned to the Baltimore and Ohio lines west of the Ohio river for exhibition in Newark, Wheeling, Pittsburgh, Connellsville, New Castle Junction, Cleveland, Garrett and Chicago. It will be on display three days in each city.

ONE CONCESSION MADE.

Carranza's action in releasing the American soldiers who were held as prisoners in Chihuahua City meets but one of the demands set out in President Wilson's recent note. The holding of the United States troopers as prisoners was a hostile act. If Carranza wishes to continue the friendly relations between the United States and Mexico his only alternative was to liberate the troopers wrongfully imprisoned by his officers.

Although the Mexican situation is cleared up to some extent by Carranza's action possibility of an armed conflict is not entirely removed by any means. One of the fundamental demands in the president's note was that the de facto government in Mexico co-operate with the American soldiers in restoring order along the border, or at least refrain from interfering with their work. A demand was made that Carranza back up from his recent assertion that American troops advancing in any direction except to the north would be attacked by the de facto forces. This is very important to the United States citizens living in the border states.

During the last few months conditions along the border have become very serious. Americans have been shot down on their own soil and without provocation without the guilty parties receiving the punishment they deserved. No attempt has been made by the Mexican government to bring the murderers to justice. Such a condition cannot be permitted. The de facto government must show beyond all doubt, that it is able to prevent a recurrence of such acts of banditry in the future. Unless it can do this but one course is open to this government.

There was absolutely no ground upon which the demand that the American prisoners be released could be mediated. The United States faced a question of duty and that duty could not be minimized. Whether the other issues involved in the controversy can be arbitrated satisfactorily remains to be seen. Carranza's reply must first be received.

There must not be the slightest element of doubt as to Carranza's attitude and authority.

SUMMONS COMES SUDDENLY TO MRS. HILIAN KYSAR

Asthma Causes Death of Aged and Respected Resident—Funeral Arrangements Not Made.

Mrs. Hilian Kysar, an aged and respected resident, died early this morning at her home, corner Laurel and Vine streets, from a sudden attack of asthma. Mrs. Kysar had been in rather feeble health for some time but had been able to be up most of the time and her sudden death came as a shock to her own family and her many friends. She was born in Claremont county, Ohio, in 1836, and had been making her home in this city for nearly forty years. She was married to Lieutenant Nineveh Kysar, who served throughout the civil war in a regiment of Indiana volunteers. Lieut. Kysar died in 1906.

Mrs. Kysar is survived by eight children, and several grand children and great grand children. The children are: Mrs. Frank Whitsett, Mrs. W. N. McDonald, Mrs. James A. Wiley, Miss Enzetta Kysar, and Urban A. Kysar, of this city, Thomas W. Kysar of Indianapolis, Samuel S. Kysar, and Mrs. Walter Zimmerman, of Sellersburg.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed, but the services will be held at Mt. Zion church in Jennings county.

LOCAL MAN URGED FOR HIGH OFFICE IN R. M. COUNCIL

Chicakeith Tribe Back of Dr. B. S. Shinness for Great Junior Sagamore of Indiana.

Chicakeith Tribe, No. 405, Order of Red Men, this city, has presented the name of Dr. B. S. Shinness for the office of Grand Junior Sagamore of the Great Council of Indiana to be held in Indianapolis, October 17-18, and is waging an active campaign in his behalf. The local tribe entered the fight for the honor of electing one of its members to this important office at this time so that nothing might be left undone that would benefit Dr. Shinness' candidacy. Every tribe in the state will soon receive official announcement that the local man is in the race and the campaign will be continued up to the minute of the election.

Dr. Shinness was one of the charter members of Chicakeith Tribe and is well known among the members of the order throughout the state. ## GOVERNOR VISITS CAMP

Orders to Entrain Troops For Border Expected at Any Time.

Indianapolis, June 29.—Governor Ralston visited Camp Ralston—named in his honor at Ft. Harrison—this afternoon. The governor accepted an invitation from Colonel Aubrey L. Kuhlman, Third regiment, the commander, to be a guest of the camp during the afternoon and evening.

The governor will be a witness to guard mount, which is done in ceremonial form at 5:30 o'clock, with one company of the Second regiment participating. He will mess with Colonel Thomas B. Coulter and other officers of the Second regiment at 6:15 o'clock and at 7 o'clock he will attend an informal reception to be given by the officers of the brigade at Colonel Kuhlman's headquarters.

It was estimated that approximately 2,400 men and officers of the 4,038 now in camp at Fort Harrison had taken the oath and had been mustered into the federal service.

Orders to entrain the troops that are "reasonably ready" for service are momentarily expected.

PAGEANT WILL BE FEATURE OF WEEK

then rolls himself to a spiral platform. He first descends from the top standing on the ball on his hands and the second time on his feet. This will be one of the most spectacular acts to be seen here. At night the spiral platform is lighted by a shower of fireworks. He spends $25 each night for the illumination alone.

The educational feature will not be overlooked during the week. One of the exhibits will be that sent out by the pure food department of this state. It will require forty lineal feet of floor space and will be in charge of a representative of the state food and drug department. It shows what this department is doing to preserve the health of the people of this state and also demonstrates how the full weight laws are enforced and what they mean to the consumer.

Another attraction that has been secured through the co-operation of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad Company will be the famous old engine, Atlantic, which was the locomotive that pulled the first train into Washington, D. C. The request of the committee that this engine be brought here was granted by the management of the road. The engine will be accompanied by an employee of the company and also by E. R. Scofield, general chairman of the Safety First committee of the B. & O. system. This locomotive will be seen by thousands of people during the week and the committee is very fortunate in being able to get it here at this time.

R. A. Cox is in charge of the historical exhibit which will be of great interest in connection with the Indiana Centennial movement. Scores of interesting relics will be placed on display during the week. Many of them are highly prized heirlooms and will be closely guarded while on exhibition.

The Jackson County Pageant will be another interesting feature. It is planned to have from six to eight hundred children participate in this feature. The pageant, it is planned, will typify the history of this county from its organization until the present time. The plans for the pageant are yet indefinite but the entertainment committee will give its attention to the feature in a very short time.

The committees in charge of the week of festivities and the Jackson County Centennial Committee are working hard in hand for the success of the undertaking. The primal purpose of the celebration is to emphasize the centennial of this state yet at the same time other attractions will be presented so that the program will be of interest to everybody in this section of the state.

Way to Help the Cause

With the words of a recent sermon ringing through my memory, "Fidelity—Not Success—Is God's Requirement of Every Man," I should like to beg space to make a plea to the patriotism and fidelity of every man, woman and child in Seymour. Having duly looked up the word patriotism, we find that Webster defines it as "zeal for one's country," involving the elements of love, service and duty. Now we all readily enough admit and laud the zeal of our brave boys who have made such splendid sacrifices, every one, to the need of his country, but few of us realize the extent to which our own fidelity to that same element and willing response to that need, can actually help the cause, or realize the infinity of selfishness that would stunt our response did we realize it. Those who do not realize the climatic changes alone they will have to experience, do not know what it all means to our soldier lads. After hours of health and nerve-racking duty they will have periods of freedom that it falls our lot to fill. These small periods of recreation are the big element of camp life. Now the Red Cross headquarters and various woman's clubs east are making mighty plans to make these hours as pleasant as is possible under the circumstances. They are sending out pleas for books, games, and magazines that hold peculiar interest for real men and dispatching them to troops on duty. Games especially are welcomed—and but few of us here but could offer at least one magazine that would serve to while away an hour or two for some homesick hero who has pledged the last ounce of his patriotism to his country. Last week we saw a full wagon-load of splendid periodicals being carted away as junk and it seemed a sacrilege. Won't someone volunteer his services in overseeing the collection of all available material and give us all a chance to demonstrate our loyalty to Uncle Sam and love for and interest in the brave boys of Company K? ### ORANGE PUDDING.

Cut three oranges in small pieces, remove seeds, sprinkle with sugar and set aside until the custard is cool. When custard is cold pour it over the oranges. Custard—Yolks of three eggs, one-half cup sugar, one pint milk, pinch of salt, two tablespoonfuls flour dissolved in a little milk. Cook in a double boiler until the consistency of cream. Beat the whites with three tablespoonfuls sugar until stiff and place on top, brown in oven. Do not heat oranges, as it makes them bitter.

BAKED VEGETABLES.

To one cup each of cooked diced potatoes and cooked diced carrots, add half cup cooked sliced onions. Rub one tablespoon flour smooth with one tablespoon butter. Add half cup milk and cook until thick and smooth. Then add the vegetables, salt and pepper to season, and well well. Turn into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with half cup fine bread crumbs, and dot with bits of butter. Bake in a hot oven until the crumbs are browned.—Farm and Home.

TURNIP NUT LOAF.

To one cup of cooked mashed turnips, add one-third chopped walnuts, one and a quarter cups fine bread crumbs, two well-beaten eggs, the juice of a large onion, one tablespoon each of butter, chopped celery, chopped green pepper or parsley, half level teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Mix well, form into a loaf and bake in a well buttered pan in a hot oven half an hour. Serve hot with tomato sauce.

TURNIPS AU GRATIN

Pare and dice a good-sized turnip. Cook until tender in boiling salted water and drain. To one pint of the cooked turnips, allow one cup cream sauce. Mix well together, adding one teaspoon each of minced onion and chopped parsley. Season with salt and pepper. Turn into a buttered baking dish, cover with one cup fine bread crumbs, dot with bits of butter and bake in a hot oven until the crumbs are browned.

APPLE PUDDING

For this pudding you will need one quart flour, one pint milk, one pint chopped apples, one saltspoon salt, two tablepoons butter, and three teaspoons baking powder. Make a dough of the flour, milk, butter, baking powder and salt. Roll out on the board and spread with the apples, roll over and over, pinching the sides and ends. Place in a baking dish with half cup butter, two cups sugar and three pints water. Bake an hour and a half. It makes its own sauce.

APPLE MEAT RELISH

This makes an appetizing relish to serve with roast pork or other meats, and is made by mixing apple and horse-radish. To two-thirds chopped apples, ground fine, add one-third grated horse-radish, and vinegar enough to make pleasantly acid; also a little sugar. Bottle. This will keep all winter.

RHUBARB TAPIOCA.

Two cupfuls of cut-up rhubarb, one-half cupful minute tapioca, juice of one lemon, one-half cupful sugar, two cupfuls water, tablespoonful butter and salt; cook tapioca in water and add salt; place rhubarb in a baking dish and pour tapioca over it; sprinkle over this sugar and lemon juice and dot with butter. Bake thirty minutes. Serve cold, with cream.

DATE PUDDING.

A nice little pudding that is easily made is date pudding and this is the receipt for it.

Take one-half cup nuts, one cup dates, three tablespoonfuls sugar, three eggs, one cup milk, one small lump of butter. Bake a golden brown and serve with whipped cream.

RICHMOND APPLE PONE

Pare and core a dozen tart apples. Scald a quart of milk, then a quart of Indian meal, mixing and cooking carefully for several minutes. Add one teaspoon salt, one cup molasses and the same amount of chopped suet. Pour this over the apples arranged in a buttered baking dish. Bake a couple of hours.

CREAMY MASHED TURNIPS.

Pare and wash one good-sized turnip. Cut in slices and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and add one large hot boiled potato, one tablespoon each of butter and cream, and salt and pepper to taste. Mash fine and heap in a hot dish. Serve at once.

Salt Has Numerous Uses For Ingenious Housewife

Only a pinch of salt, yet what a difference it makes in the flavor of the dish that we are preparing! We all know that salt is indispensable to the human body, yet we seldom think of it as a cleanser, or as a first aid to the housewife. A pinch of salt added to coffee or chocolate improves the flavor greatly. A little bit of salt thrown into any pudding makes it more appetizing. A little salt in custard keeps it from drying and caking, and adds to the flavor. Salt added to apples or apple sauce alters the flavor of the apples. Some housewives in preparing apples for baking, add salt instead of sugar, and stuff the apples with ground ham or a slice of bacon.

Eggs which are to be beaten or cream that is to be whipped will foam more readily if a pinch of salt is added.

Place salt in the oven under the pastry pans or tins to prevent the scorching of the contents of the pan. To prevent an omelet from sticking, or burning, sprinkle salt on the bottom of the hot pan, then turn it out, wipe with a dry cloth and proceed to make the omelet.

Some housewives, in order to hurry the cooking of food in a double boiler, add salt to the water in the outer boiler. Salt added to the water in which desserts, candies or puddings are cooled will hasten the cooling process.

Salt is a great aid in putting out fire. When one uses a gas stove for broiling purposes the grease or drippings from the meat often catch fire. Sometimes the servant is careless and forgets to clean the dripping pan consequently when the oven is again lighted, a fire is the result. In either instance, or when the grease in the frying pan is burning, salt will stop the mischief.

Proper Foods with Roasts.

The proper accompaniments for various roasts, as laid down by one well known cook, are as follows:

Roast beef should be garnished simply with freshly scraped horse-radish. A more elaborate garnishing would include small baked tomatoes, whole mushrooms and braised vegetables, such as celery, button onions, salsify and the like. A rich brown gravy should be served with it, and small, neat squares of Yorkshire pudding, garnished with sprigs of parsley and either mushrooms or horse-radish.

Roast mutton should be garnished with daintily cooked tomatoes or mushrooms, or both, arranged alternately with a sprig of parsley between each, and red currant jelly should be served as an accompaniment.

Roast lamb should have a properly prepared cucumber garnish, and should be served with a good brown gravy and cucumber sauce. Another and more elaborate garnish would include fried potato croquettes, cauliflower sprigs, dipped in hot butter and lightly sprinkled with salt, pepper and finely minced parsley. Of course the simplest of all dressings is the traditional mint sauce.

For removing skins from ripe tomatoes, instead of plunging them in to hot water, scrape the tomato with the back of a knife blade, and the skin may then be removed readily.

A little vaseline rubbed on to a carrying set when put away will prevent rust or discoloration and is easily wiped off when wanted for use.

Margaret Mason's Fashion Letter

What if Victorian Craze Extends to Our Home?

(Written for the United Press.)

New York, June 30.—The answer to what next, my dears, is what-not. Now what do you think of that? Nothing more nor less than the old fashioned what not is what we may expect if the craze for Victorian modes extends from our clothes to our homes at the rate it is spreading.

At the moment of going to press we have with us in the midst of our smartest homes today all the wherewithal to deck that atrocity of old-fashioned taste, the whatnot, so why not go the limit and drag it down from the garret, dust off its shelves and set it up in the chosen corner. Truly the porcelain dog and the china cat, the glass flowers and the framed sampler can never feel at home outside a whatnot environment.

Indeed it is only fitting that we should have a proper setting for our hoopskirts and scollops, our fichues and bell sleeves, our shoulder capes and poke bonnets; hence undoubtedly the revival of the smirking porcelain poodle door-steps, the green and yellow china parrots swaying in gilded hoops, the worsted embroidered firescreens and footrests that now infest the truly modern and artistic hearth and home.

The crotcheted and braided rag rugs are on all our smartest floors, lying in wait for the voluminous silken skirts of the good old days to trail over them. But alas! no silken skirts can touch them now in these days of high-water ballet effects. Daguerreotypes of Grandpa as a soldier and Grandma as a bride adorn the mantelpiece, sharing the honors with an urn-shaped pot-pourri jar of purple glass.

Our smartest billet-doux are penned with gay-hued quills that rest as in days of yore in little painted glass jars half filled with gleaming shot.

On rused bottomed chairs we rest (?) the whose high straight backs are festive with painted garlands on their painted cross pieces.

The castor and the urn-shaped knife and fork cases reign on our antique Sheraton buffets. Majolica fruit baskets, soup tureens and colored glass cake stands have broken in on our smartest tables and are being broken in on our smartest kitchens.

Above stairs we spurn electric lights and grope our divers ways to bed with bayberry candles in pewter candle sticks equipped with quaint and ancient snuffers.

Crawling under the Rose of Sharon patchwork quilt we fall to sleep to dream that we may yet be overtaken by a visitation of gilded pine cones, gilded rolling pins, gilded ginger beer jugs, stuffed melon pineushions, castles-in-the-air and wax wreaths under glass for all the world like mushrooms "sous cloche" only not so gastronomically edifying.

No doubt we'll awake screaming and jump from bed only to stumble over the porcelain poodle and the china cat.

Your Potentialities

(By Barbara Boyd.)

Some one has said that life is turning potentialities into actualities.

There is much food for thought in that statement. It will repay deep probing.

What are our potentialities?

Many of us float along on the surface of life, doing the conventional thing, the customary thing, what is expected of us, but we never get down to the real self within. We do not know our potentialities. Or if once in a while we do hear them speaking, we turn an indifferent ear to their voice.

But our potentialities are our real self. And we only really live when we manifest them. As this writer says: "Life is the twining of them into actualities. Drifting along, doing the conventional or customary things, is not living. It is not making life-substance. Those who live superficially, who never get into the real current of their being, do not know the joy of actual life. They have never really tasted life.

The great men of the world, the men and women who stand to us for some wondrous achievement, who, we acknowledge, have really lived, though we may not fully grasp, through lack of experiencing, what true living means, are the men who have turned their potentialities into actualities. They studied themselves to know what were their true powers, or they followed some leading. One of them who is a great lecturer, said that as a boy he had a "pulling" toward public speaking. He gave this desire full expression. Though many of his early efforts were failures, he did not let doubt or fear or discouragement get the upper hand. He knew he would not have the desire if there was not something there to be expressed. And so he has made life, made useful and successful life, by turning his potentiality into an actuality.

We would all live more useful and happier lives, if we would study ourselves to discover our potentialities. We are here to express something, to be of service in some way. And that something has a voice. It is the true self. But we do not listen to it, or we stifle it, and gradually its voice grows faint. But if we would give it expression, even though that expression were feeble and imperfect at first we would get into our right path in life. We would be occupied with our true work, the work of making or expressing true life. We would transform this thing that is but a voice, a spirit, into something tangible into something that is useful to the world.

In order to truly live, we may need to face about and get a new idea of life. Some of us look upon earning our living, or making a social success, or becoming famous, as life. But life is true expression. If we are truly expressing ourselves in these things we are doing, then we are living. If we can hold the fabric we are making as the days go by and say this is myself, then we are expressing a true sense of life. But how many of us can do this? Many, many of us know that what we are doing is not what we want to do, that, if anything we have a distaste for it, but we are letting circumstance or the world's opinion hold us to our course.

We would be happier, we would achieve more real content, if we would listen to the voice within and then set out to transform that voice into something actual that would give us joy in the transforming and be of service to the world when accomplished.

Household Hints

Instead of folding tablecloths after they are washed, roll them, folded once or twice, lengthwise on mailing tubes of cardboard. This makes a smoother cloth, with fewer creases, which is, of course, to be desired.

To bleach white garments use one tablespoon of borax in one gallon of water. Wet the clothes, dry in the sun and repeat the process if necessary.

Try cooking casserole stews, baked beans, etc., on the ledge of the furnace, being careful to keep plenty of liquid in the receptacles during cooking.

To remove tea and coffee stains, stretch the stained place over a bowl and pour boiling water through the stain.

Soak new brooms in strong, hot salt water before using. This toughens and makes the broom last longer.

To remove mildew rub over marks with the juice of a raw tomato, sprinkle with salt and lay in the sun.

Frost small cakes by dipping them into a bowl of frosting. Let the frosting harden and redip.

If your gas mantle turns black, sprinkle a little salt on it while it is lit and it will turn white.

To take out grass stains, wash the stained part in alcohol and rinse in clear water.

Baked peas, instead of beans, make a change. Leave out molasses.

Wide Brims the Midsummer Vogue

About the only debatable question in midsummer millinery lies in its width of brim, and there are three widths to choose from. They are wide, wider, widest. The hats shown in the illustration are far from extremes and they are very pleasing developments of three entirely different styles.

The pretty model at the center is a hemp shape with low crown and flat brim only moderately wide. It is covered with crepe georgette and trimmed with crepe roses all in pale tones of shell pink. The filiest of black mesh veils is draped over it, and this with a narrow band of black velvet gaped at the base of the crown gives an attractive depth of color. A wreath of roses rests on the hair in a prim row set close to the underbrim.

At the left an odd development of the "cane-seat" hat lends daintiness to the substantial but cool-looking shape. The brim is edged with lace hair braid and outlined on the under side with lines of French blue. Picot-edged ribbon in the same shade of blue is drawn about the crown, and tiny chiffon roses with long stems appear to clamber over the crown, the stems threaded through the open spaces in the straw shape.

A familiar and always pretty hat of leghorn appears at the right, of the sort that is never entirely out of style. It has a round crown, covered with crepe georgette, and a wide and floppy brim. Its designer has confined herself to approved methods in trimming it, with a big pink rose and a wreath of forget-me-nots posed at the front. Black velvet ribbon is tied across and around the crown, ending in loops and ends at the right side near the back. The model is so convincingly pretty for young faces that the milliner need never worry to look for better means of decoration,

By RANDALL PARRISH

A Romance of Early Days in the Middle West

Author of "Keith of the Border," "My Lady of Doubt," "The Maid of the Forest," etc.

If this state of mind was sin, it was beyond my power to rid myself of the curse; if I was already condemned of holy church because of failure to abide by her decree, then there was naught left but for me to seek my own happiness, and the happiness of the man I loved.

I lifted my head, strengthened by the very thought, the red blood tingling again through my veins. The truth was mine; I felt no inclination to obscure it. The time had come for rejoicing, and action. I loved Rene d'Artigny, and, although he had never spoken the word, I knew he loved me. Tomorrow he would be in exile, a wanderer of the woods, an escaped prisoner, under condemnation of death, never again safe within reach of French authority. Ay, but he should go alone; in the depths of those forests, beyond the arm of the law, beyond even the grasp of the church, we could go together. In our own hearts love would justify. Without a qualm of conscience, without even a lingering doubt, I made the choice, the final decision.

You Hear Me, Monsieur—Go!

I know not how long it took me to think this all out, until I had accepted fate; but I do know the decision brought happiness and courage. Food was brought me by a strange Indian, apparently unable to speak French; nor would he even enter the room, silently handing me the platter through the open door. Two sentries stood just without—soldiers of De Baugis, I guessed, as their features were unfamiliar. They gazed at me curiously, as I stood in the doorway, but without changing their attitudes. Plainly I was held prisoner also; M. Cassion's threat was being put into execution. This knowledge merely served to strengthen my decision, and I closed and barred the door again, smiling as I did so.

It grew dusk while I made almost vain effort to eat, and, at last, pushing the pewter plate away, I crossed over, and cautiously opened the wooden shutter of the window. The red light of the sunset still illumined the western sky, and found glorious reflection along the surface of the river. It was a dizzy drop to the bed of the stream below, but Indians were on the opposite bank, beyond rifle shot, in considerable force, a half-dozen canoes drawn up on the sandy shore, and several fires burning. They were too far away for me to judge their tribe, yet a number among them sported war bonnets, and I had no doubt they were Iroquois.

So far as I could perceive elsewhere, there was no movement, as my eyes traveled the half-circle, over a wide vista of hill and dale, green valley and dark woods, although to the left I could occasionally hear the sharp report of a rifle, in evidence that besieging savages were still watchful of the fort entrance. I could not lean out far enough to see in that direction, yet as the night grew darker the vicious spits of fire became visible. Above me the solid log walls arose but a few feet—a tall man might stand upon the window ledge, and find grip of the roof; but below was the sheer drop to the river—perchance two hundred feet beneath. Already darkness shrouded the water, as the broad valley faded into the gloom of the night.

There was naught for me to do but sit and wait. The guard which M. Cassion had stationed at the door prevented my leaving the room, but its more probable purpose was to keep others from communicating with me. De Tonty had evidently resorted to diplomacy, and instead of quarrelling with the three officers when they approached him, had greeted them all so genially as to leave the impression that he was disposed to permit matters to take their natural course. He might be watched of course, yet was no longer suspected as likely to help rescue the prisoner. All their fear now was centered upon me, and my possible influence.

If I could be kept from any further communication with either D'Artigny or De Tonty, it was scarcely probable that any of the garrison would make serious effort to interfere with their plans. De Tonty's apparent indifference, and his sudden friendliness with De Baugis and Cassion, did not worry me greatly. I realized his purpose in thus diverting suspicion. His pledge of assistance had been given me, and his was the word of a soldier and gentleman. In some manner, and soon—before midnight certainly—I would receive message from Boisrondelet.

Yet my heart failed me more than once as I waited. How long the time seemed, and how deadly silent was the night. Crouched close beside the door, I could barely hear the muttered conversation of the soldiers on guard; and when I crossed to the open window I looked out upon a black void, utterly soundless.

Not even the distant crack of a rifle now broke the solemn stillness, and the only spot of color visible was the dull red glow of a campfire on the opposite bank of the river. I had no way of computing time, and the lagging hours seemed centuries long, as terrifying doubts assailed me.

Every new thought became an agony of suspense. Had the plans failed? Had Boisrondelet discovered the prisoner so closely guarded as to make rescue impossible? Had his nerve, his daring, vanished before the real danger of the venture? Had D'Artigny refused to accept the chance? What had happened; what was happening out there in the mystery?

All I could do was pray, and wait. Perhaps no word would be given me—the escape might already be accomplished, and I left here to my fate. Boisrondelet knew nothing of my decision to accompany D'Artigny in his exile. If the way was difficult and dangerous, he might not consider it essential to communicate with me at all. De Tonty had promised, to be sure, yet he might have failed to so instruct the younger man. I clung to the window, the agony of this possibility driving me wild.

"Now," I Said, Barely Able to Make My Lips Speak.

Mon Dieu! was that a noise overhead? I could see nothing, yet, as I leaned farther out, a cord touched my face. I grasped it, and drew the dangling end in. It was weighted with a bit of wood. A single coal glowed in the fireplace, and from this I ignited a splinter, barely yielding me light enough to decipher the few words traced on the white surface: "Safe so far; have you any word?"

My veins throbbed; I could have screamed in delight, or sobbed in sudden joy and relief. I fairly crept to the open window on hands and knees, animated now with but one thought, one hope—the desire not to be left there behind, alone. I hung far out, my face upturned, staring into the darkness. The distance was not great, only a few feet to the roof above, yet so black was the night that the edge above me blended imperceptibly against the sky. I could perceive no movement, no outline. Could they have already gone? Was it possible that they merely dropped this brief message, and instantly vanished? No, the cord still dangled; somewhere in that dense gloom the two men peered over the roof edge, waiting my response.

"Monsieur," I called up softly, unable to restrain my eagerness.

"Yes, madame," it was D'Artigny's voice, although a mere whisper. "You have some word for me?"

"Ay, listen; is there any way by which I can join you?"

"Join me—here?" astonishment at my request made him incoherent. "Why, madame, the risk is great—"

"Never mind that; my reason is worthy, nor have we time now to discuss the matter. Monsieur Boisrondelet, is there a way?"

I heard them speak to each other, a mere murmur of sound; then another voice reached my ears clearly.

"We have a strong grass rope, madame, which will safely bear your weight. The risk will not be great. I have made a noose, and will lower it."

I reached it with my hand, but felt a doubt as my fingers clasped it.

"Tis very small, monsieur."

"But strong enough for double your weight, as 'twas Indian woven. Put foot in the noose, and hold tight. There are two of us holding it above."

The memory of the depth below frightened me, yet I crept forth on the narrow sill, clinging desperately to the taut rope, until I felt my foot safely pressed into the noose, which tightened firmly about it.

"Now," I said, barely able to make my lips speak. "I am ready."

"Then swing clear, madame; we'll hold you safe."

I doubt if it was a full minute in which I swung out over that gulf amid the black night. My heart seemed to stop beating, and I retained no sense other than to cling desperately to the swaying cord which alone held me from being dashed to death on the jagged rocks below. Inch by inch they drew me up, the continuous jerks yielding a sickening sensation, but the distance was so short I could scarcely realize the full danger, before D'Artigny grasped me with his hands, and drew me in beside him on the roof I stood upon my feet, trembling from excitement, yet encouraged in my purpose by his first words of welcome.

"Adele," he exclaimed, forgetful of the presence of his comrade. "Surely you had serious cause for joining us here."

"Am I welcome, monsieur?"

"Can you doubt? Yet surely it was not merely to say farewell that you assumed such risk?"

"No, monsieur, it was not to say farewell. I would accompany you in your flight. Do not start like that at my words; I cannot see your face—perhaps if I could I should lose courage. I have made my choice, monsieur. I will not remain the slave of M. Cassion. Whether for good or evil, I give you my faith."

"You—you," his hands grasped mine. "You mean you will go with me into exile, into the woods?"

"Yes, monsieur."

"But do you realize what it all means? I am a fugitive, a hunted man; never again can I venture within French civilization. I must live among savages. No, no, Adele, the sacrifice is too great. I cannot accept of it."

"Do you love me, monsieur?"

"Mon Dieu—yes."

"Then there is no sacrifice. My heart would break here. God! Would you doom me to live out my life with that brute—that murderer? I am a young woman, a mere girl, and this is my one chance to save myself from hell. I am not afraid of the woods, of exile, of anything, so I am with you. I would rather die than go to him—to confess him husband."

"The lady is right, Rene," Boisrondelet said earnestly. "You must think of her as well as yourself."

"Think of her! Mon Dieu, of whom else do I think? Adele, do you mean your words? Would you give up all for me?"

"Yes, monsieur."

"But do you know what your choice means?"

I stood before him, brave in the darkness.

"Monsieur, I have faced it all. I know; the choice is made—will you take me?"

Then I was in his strong arms, and for the first time, his lips met mine. (TO BE CONTINUED)

FOOD RIOTS IN ROUMANIA

Four Killed and Five Wounded at Galatz by the Police.

Amsterdam (via London), June 29.—Four persons were killed and five wounded by the police during a food riot at Galatz, Roumania, according to Bucharest dispatches printed in German newspapers received here.

According to the dispatches the workmen of Galatz decided on a general strike because the Roumanian authorities prohibited all demonstrations and protest meetings concerning the high cost of food. The men assembled, and the police in dispersing them, inflicted the casualties.

Believes Lawyer Took Life.

Kokomo, Ind., June 29.—That Martin Quinn, prominent Lafayette lawyer, who was killed by a train here two weeks ago, committed suicide, is the opinion of Coroner Lung, who has reported his verdict. The finding is based on the testimony of two tramps, who said they saw Quinn leap under the locomotive.

SOCIAL EVENTS

KILGAS-SHERBER.

The marriage of Miss Minnie Kilgas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kilgas, and Charles Sherber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sherber, was solemnized at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of the bride, south of the city. The Rev. E. H. Eggers, pastor of the German Lutheran church, read the ceremony in the presence of a small company of immediate friends and relatives of the young people. After the ceremony a large number of young people called at the Kilgas home to extend their congratulations. Refreshments were served to the company. The groom is one of the trusted and efficient employees of the B. & O. S.W. Company. The bride has many friends in this city and the vicinity. Mr. and Mrs. Sherber are at home in their newly furnished home on North Ewing street.

COX-WISE.

The Central Christian church was the scene of a very pretty wedding last evening when Miss Elizabeth Mary Wise became the bride of Mr. Jessie Cox, of Chestnut Ridge. For the entrance of the bridal party, Mrs. Ray R. Keach, organist, played Mendelssohn's wedding march. The bride and groom were attended by Mr. Cox, brother of the groom, and Miss Besie Kasting, and by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fleeharty. Miss Dorothy Keach and Master Paul Crabb, flower bearers, followed the bride and groom. The ceremony was read by the Rev. Franklin P. Smith, pastor of the church. As the party left the church Mrs. Keach played Lohengrin's bridal chorus. The church was crowded with the friends and relatives of the young people. Mr. and Mrs. Cox will make their home at Chestnut Ridge.

CELEBRATES 82ND BIRTHDAY.

Mrs. Clarissa Franklin celebrated her 82nd birthday Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Allie Glasson, north of the city. Mrs. Glasson served a sumptuous dinner in honor of the occasion, which was enjoyed by many of the relatives and friends of Mrs. Franklin, who is enjoying good health for her advanced age. The day was also the twelfth birthday anniversary of Millard and Mildred, twin children of Mr. and Mrs. Rueben Glasson, who also participated in the celebration. Those present from Seymour were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Glasson, Mrs. Rachel Franklin and Mrs. W. J. Houchen.

WILLIAMS-HUFFMAN.

Todd B. Huffman and Miss Alma Williams, both of Bartholomew county, were united in marriage at 9 o'clock this morning by the Rev. Charles L. Graham, pastor of the First Baptist church, at his home. Mr. Williams, a brother of the bride, and Mrs. Williams were the only guests. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Huffman accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Williams went to Louisville for a short visit before returning to Columbus for future residence.

FOR MISS SAMPLE.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Elsner entertained at a charming Rook party at their home on North Poplar street last evening in compliment to their guest, Miss Mary Sample, of Greenfield. Eighteen guests enjoyed the cordial hospitality of the host and hostess. The house was attractively decorated with an abundance of daisies, large bouquets being artistically arranged on the mantels and the archways. Refreshments of brick ice cream and cake were served. The souvenirs were miniature silk flags in keeping with the approaching national holiday.

HARRIS-JAMES.

The wedding of Mr. Irvin Harris, of this city, and Miss Hattie James, of Martinsville, occurred at the Methodist parsonage at Martinsville, Sunday morning, June 25, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Tevis, pastor of the M. E. church in that city.

The bride is a popular young Martinsville lady. Mr. Harris is the son of Mrs. Belle Harris, of North Broadway. He is employed at the Miller Book Store. Mr. and Mrs. Harris will make their home in this city.

GRIGSBY-STANFIELD.

Miss Flora Stanfield and Mr. Alfred Grigsby were united in marriage, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon by the Rev. J. F. Severinghaus, at his residence, corner Poplar and Bruce streets. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Benjamin Stanfield, of South Poplar street. The groom is an employee of the Seymour Woolen Factory Co. They will make their home in this city.

LAWN FETE.

Mrs. C. H. Wiethoff's class of the First Methodist Sunday School gave an ice cream social and lawn fete last evening at the home of the Misses Pearl and Willa Teckemeyer, West Fourth street. The lawn was beautifully illuminated with Japanese lanterns. The proceeds of the evening were for the organ fund of the church.

AFTERNOON INFORMAL.

Miss Kathryn Hancock entertained a company of friends this afternoon at her home on North Chestnut street at a charming informal sewing party. The hostess recently returned from Bloomington where she is attending Indiana University.

FOR MISS MARION.

Mrs. Carl Oesting entertained yesterday afternoon with a Five Hundred party in honor of her guest, Miss Anna Marion of Cincinnati. Two tables were in play, and following the games a luncheon was served. Mrs. Everett Stiles of Cincinnati, was an out-of-town guest.

INVITATION DANCE.

A number of young people are to enjoy a dance at the Society Hall tonight. A special orchestra has been secured for the evening and a program of excellent music is assured. Among the company will be the college students who recently returned here for the summer vacation.

YOUNG LADIES' SOCIETY.

The Young Ladies' Society of the German Lutheran church held their regular monthly meeting last evening at the Lutheran club building. Following the business session, a social hour was enjoyed, during which refreshments were served.

GERMAN M. E. LADIES' AID.

Mrs. Margaret Ernest was hostess this afternoon to the Ladies' Aid Society of the German M. E. church at her home on South Poplar street. A profitable and enjoyable afternoon was spent.
